SpelBots Score Spot in International Soccer Competition

Thirty years from now, when historians look back to see how historically black colleges and universities were involved in robotics research, Spelman College will dominate their findings.

Students Aryen Moore-Alston (team leader), Brandy Kinlaw (lead software integrator), Ebony Smith, Karina Lyles, Ebony O'Neal and Shinese Noble make up the SpelBots RoboCup Soccer Team that recently qualified for the International RoboCup 2005 Four-Legged Robot soccer competition to be held in Osaka, Japan on July 11–19, 2005.

The SpelBots' (short for Spelman roBOTics) participation in the competition was no small feat. Out of the 24 teams from around the world that qualified, Spelman is the first and only HBCU, the only all-women institution and the only U.S. undergraduate institution to qualify. The other U.S. teams are Carnegie Mellon University, Georgia Institute of Technology, University of Pennsylvania and the University of Texas at Austin. The remaining teams are from Europe, South America, Asia and Australia.

RoboCup soccer matches teams of four Sony AIBO four-legged robots in a soccer competition. The robots must autonomously (without human intervention) find the soccer ball, the goal and their competition. They must try to score goal shots while defending their own goal. The goal of the International RoboCup soccer initiative is to develop a team of humanoid robots that is able to win against the official human World Soccer Champion team by the year 2050.

The research topics and technology involved include computer vision, localization, motion and locomotion, robot path planning, multi-robot coordination and robot communication. Spelman's team is also researching the ability of robots to learn optimal behaviors such as kicking using a machine-learning algorithm. Under the direction of Dr. Andrew Williams, the students are using and adapting a software framework called Tekkotsu that originated from Carnegie Mellon University.

The SpelBots team will also compete in the RoboCup U.S. Open on May 7–10, 2005, at Georgia Institute of Technology, and hopes to inspire other young women to pursue education and research at Spelman and explore careers in computer science and robotics.

The team acknowledges the generous support of President Beverly Daniel Tatum; Dr. Andrea Lawrence, chair of the computer science department at Spelman; Dr. Ayanna Howard, Eddie Tunstel and Eva Graham from NASA JPL; Charles Bartel, University of Iowa; Dayo Ajayi, Spelman College, and Dr. Dave Touretzky and Ethan Tira-Thompson from Carnegie Mellon University. ●

Empowered Spelman Students Get Out the Vote, Impact 2004 Election

One major news story of the 2004 presidential election is that young people turned out in record numbers. And the students of Spelman College played a key role in helping to get out the vote in the Atlanta University Center (AUC) and West End community.

The Spelman Student Government Association (SGA) led a strategic campaign to raise awareness, register new voters and motivate African Americans to show up at the polls on voting day. The SGA also prepared themselves to advocate at the polls in case any registered voters were denied the right to cast their ballots.

Spelman women took their spirit of leadership and service seriously, working hard to ensure that their community's voices were heard. And they scored many important victories.

Inside Spelman

is published four times per academic year for a readership that includes alumnae, trustees, parents, students, faculty, staff and friends of the College. The newsletter is dedicated to informing our readers about news, upcoming events and issues in the life of the College.

As I travel around the country I have asked alumnae and friends of the institution to close their eyes and imagine a strong and vibrant Spelman College in the 21st century. When we envision such a bright future for Spelman together, the universal response is one of excitement. The next question is, of course, what do we need to make this happen?

Let's begin with the need for more faculty, one of the key components of Academic Excellence, the A in ALIVE. Though our published student-faculty ratio of 11:1 compares favorably with other distinguished liberal arts colleges, this ratio is based on simple division, the number of students divided by the number of faculty. It does not account for the fact that students are not evenly distributed across areas of study. The most popular majors include psychology, biology, political science and economics where the student-faculty ratio is much higher, as high as 30:1 in the case of psychology, for example. In addition, there are new areas of study we must address – interdisciplinary programs such as environmental science, international relations, neuroscience and women's health – but we need more faculty to develop our curriculum in those areas. Fortunately, a recent donation from Pfizer, Inc. has made it possible for us to appoint a new faculty member for three years in the area of women's health; however, additional resources will be needed to make this a permanent faculty position. Similarly, much of our success in the sciences has been built on positions funded with grant dollars. In order to maintain and build on that success, we will need to increase our budget to retain these faculty members.

It costs approximately $100,000 per year to support each new faculty member (including salary, benefits, research support, etc.), and we estimate that 20 new faculty members are needed to satisfy our present and anticipated needs. If we paid for these faculty members from the earnings of our endowment, we would need $40,000,000 more in the endowment to earn $2,000,000 of new income. But we don't have to wait for such a large sum of money. We can achieve the same result with consistent annual giving by more of our Spelman alumnae. Whether the donations are the size of a recent graduate's first gift, the proverbial "widow's mite" or a corporate executive's bonus, consistent annual gifts are the key to academic excellence at Spelman College.

Last year 21 percent of our alumnae contributed a little over $1,000,000 to the annual fund. A significant increase in alumnae participation could dramatically increase that total and put us well on the way to hiring the faculty we need. Alumnae participation makes all the difference in the success of an annual fund and available faculty resources. A robust annual fund is the margin of excellence Spelman College needs to keep the A in ALIVE going strong. Thank you for your support! ●

(CIRCLE), in 2004, 1.8 million more 18–24 year-olds and 4.6 million more under-30 Americans voted in 2004 than in 2000. CIRCLE reports that "a major lesson learned... is just how active students can be and that they, at least as much as other populations, can be mobilized to get registered and to vote."

Taking the Challenge

The Spelman SGA recognized the need to get students and the community informed and involved. "Our goals were to raise student awareness about what each candidate stood for, and to let students know their rights at the polls," says Adeyola Adejobe, SGA President. "We also worked with the Morehouse and Clark Atlanta University SGAs as well as the campus-based NAACP and other organizations."

Some students needed reminding of the power and significance of their ballots. "We explained the importance of voting – even if not for yourself, but for grandparents or great-grandparents who fought for our right to vote. That helped get people's attention," Adejobe says. Still, she admits, "we faced a lot of challenges from people who had voted in 2000 and were discouraged by the results."

Adejobe reports that males from throughout the AUC and surrounding community were "pretty stubborn" about their belief that their vote didn't matter, and more apt than females to express doubt and mistrust in the political process. "We learned that you can't convince everybody. You present the information, try to convince them, and move on. They can't say nobody tried."

NEWS BRIEFS

■ On January 21, the Spelman board of trustees honored Dr. June Gary Hopps, chair of the board of trustees (1997–2004) by naming the atrium in the Manley Center the June Gary Hopps Atrium. During the celebration, an official portrait and plaque were unveiled as Dr. Hopps was cited for her leadership, service, dedication and generosity to Spelman College.

■ In February, Linda Tillery and the Cultural Heritage Choir performed at the Cosby Academic Center Auditorium. The six-member choir raised the roof with hand-clapping, foot-stomping performances at a convocation and an evening concert with their repertoire of spirituals, African chants, field hollers, and slave songs that have informed the definition of music throughout the Americas and sustained black people through slavery and freedom. The Cultural Heritage Choir also conducted master classes and workshops in African dance, choral singing, ethnomusicology and a sing-along celebration at the Marian Wright Edelman Child Development Center.

■ On November 18, President Beverly Daniel Tatum and Moya Bailey, C2005, joined Dr. William “Bill” Cosby and other local leaders in a town hall forum at Frederick Douglass High School in Atlanta. Titled “Transformation: Back to Self-Respect and Self-Reliance,” the forum, which was free and open to the public, was one in a series of national forums hosted by Dr. Cosby focusing on the value of education and the importance of positive parenting. The town hall was moderated by Cynthia Tucker, editorial page editor of the Atlanta Journal-Constitution and aired on Georgia Public Television, WPBA, Channel 30, for four days in December.

■ The National Science Foundation (NSF) has funded a proposal called Facilitating Academic Careers in Engineering and Science (FACES). FACES, an NSF Alliance for Graduate Education and the Professorate program, is a collaborative effort between Spelman College, Georgia Institute of Technology, Morehouse College and Emory University. The Spelman award is $305,984 for October 2004 through September 2008. It will be administered through the Office of Science, Engineering and Technical Careers. The grant will support an increasing number of African Americans attaining doctorates in engineering and science professorships.

■ Spelman College celebrated a legacy of service and civic engagement through the dedication of the Bonner Office of Community Service and Student Development on October 21, 2004.

The Corella and Bertram F. Bonner Foundation supports Spelman’s mission to educate women who demonstrate “a willingness to serve” by establishing the Bonner Scholars Community Service Program. Recently, the Foundation awarded $90,178 to the Bonner Enrichment Fund to cultivate service campus-wide. The new Bonner Office is directed by Ms. Felecia Smith and is located in Manley Center. The additional funding will be used to strengthen the College’s administrative infrastructure, enhance education and awareness about service, and expand the community of servant leaders.

■ Cracker Barrel Old Country Store® established an endowed scholarship program at Spelman College for students majoring in history. On October 18, the company presented President Beverly Daniel Tatum with a $125,000 check during the grand opening of the East Point, Georgia, store. The Cracker Barrel Heritage Endowed Scholarship is designed to inspire young people to value and explore their history and heritage. In appreciation, the College donated a historical photograph of students in a cooking class, Packard Hall, circa 1890s, for the East Point store’s interior. Later, an additional $125,000 gift was made.

■ The Spelman College Museum of Fine Art explored the history of African women as active photographic subjects in its exhibition, Engaging the Camera: African Women, Portraits and the Photographs of Hector Acebes. On view from October 28, 2004 through February 21, 2005, Engaging the Camera is the first major exhibition in the United States to feature the photographs of Hector Acebes, a Colombian photographer and cinematographer who traveled extensively throughout Africa in 1947, 1948 and 1953. One theme that the exhibition examined is the divide between art and ethnography; another was gender and the African female body as spectacle. Themes such as these contributed to discussions about the reception and interpretation of photography in Africa.

■ Dr. Myra Burnett, vice provost and associate professor of psychology, has received funding from the National Science Foundation for a collaborative interdisciplinary project between Spelman College and the University of Wisconsin System. “Science and Social Transformation” is a $220,418 planning grant established to identify social and behavioral scientists in the United States and in sub-Saharan Africa who are able to carry out research agendas on the impact of science education. The grant addresses science policy across all educational levels, but will initially examine transformation within the higher education arena. Drs. Mona Phillips, a professor of sociology, Juliet Elu, vice chair and associate professor of economics, and Amata Diabate, visiting professor of economics, will participate as well.

■ Increasing the pipeline of African American students who will pursue graduate studies in information assurance is a goal of the National Science Foundation grant secured by Dr. Andrea Lawrence, associate professor and chair of computer science. Empowered with funding of $110,480 for September 2004 through August 2006, Curriculum Development and Research in Information Assurance will be implemented in collaboration with faculty member teams at Clark Atlanta University, Morehouse College and Georgia Institute of Technology.

■ Director of the Women’s Center and the Anna J. Cooper Professor Dr. Beverly Guy-Sheftall was one of the “Hollywood in Black & White” panelists during a forum sponsored by Sony Pictures and Director/ Filmmaker Spike Lee that was held on February 1 in Martin Luther King, Jr. International Chapel on the Morehouse campus. The panel discussion was organized as part of a series of events established to coincide with the re-release of Spike Lee’s collegiate classic, School Daze – a cult film that has become the unofficial film of the Atlanta University Center – and the announcement of his plans to begin a sequel of School Daze. In addition to Dr. Guy-Sheftall and Spike Lee, other panelists debating the role of African Americans in Hollywood were Dr. Herbert Eichelberger, professor of film at Clark Atlanta University and Time magazine editor Christopher Farley who served as moderator.

■ Leslie Ibeanusi, a senior biology major, won the inaugural Miss Nigeria in America 2004 pageant. With her title, Ms. Ibeanusi will participate in a speaking tour promoting her platform on health and water issues in Nigeria, become a new spokesmodel for a new online boutique, travel to Nigeria to meet with leaders and receive a cash prize. Ms. Ibeanusi is the daughter of Dr. Victor Ibeanusi, associate professor of biology and director, environmental science and studies program.

■ According to The Journal of Blacks in Higher Education, Spelman College has the highest four-year graduation rate at a historically black college and university, a designation based on the National Collegiate Athletic Association's 2004 graduation figures for HBCUs. According to an article published in the December 2 JBHE Weekly Bulletin, "Spelman's 77 percent student graduation rate surpasses the rate of 16 of the nation's 54 highest-ranking predominantly white colleges and universities."

■ Spelman College is establishing a scholar-in-residence program in partnership with the Pfizer Foundation to enhance women's health, reduce health disparities and increase leadership among Black women in health and science. Dr. Lisa Egbuonu-Davis, vice president of U.S. Medical at Pfizer, will serve as the scholar-in-residence during the two-year program. She will design and teach a joint seminar course addressing health disparities. In addition, there will be a Pfizer lecture series that will address health disparities affecting black adolescents and young women. Subjects will include obesity, mental health issues, HIV/AIDS and cardiovascular risks. The program is housed in the Women's Research and Resource Center.

■ The National Science Foundation has funded the proposal titled "Collaborative Research: SEI: Information Modeling for Comparative Visualizations and Analyses – Informatics for Comprehensive Two-Dimensional Gas Chromatography." The award is $118,686 for September 2004 through August 2007 with Dr. Jean-Marie Dimandja, assistant professor of chemistry, as the principal investigator. The project will fund two Spelman students and will support a research project that will develop advanced software for a chemical instrument invented in Dr. Dimandja's graduate laboratory.

■ In March, Spelman's Independent Scholars (SIS) Visiting Scholar in Traditional Knowledge Dr. Virginia Davis Floyd and 10 SIS students spent nine days of research and exploration in Ghana. The trip included a seminar on traditional knowledge that was attended by healers and scholars with whom Dr. Floyd has worked for the past 10 years through Prometra International and Prometra-USA. One of the students, Bernice Appiah-Pinkrah, a native of Ghana, translated for the students in Akan when they interviewed the three women elders in her village and presented school supplies and other gifts to the village children.

■ After witnessing an increasing number of disturbing images of Black women in hip hop videos, Spelman College and ESSENCE magazine joined forces to "Take Back the Music" in a groundbreaking town hall meeting at the Cosby Academic Center Auditorium on February 25. This "call to action" session examined the visual and lyrical depiction of Black women in hip hop videos and culture. More than 600 attended. Topics included "Where Are We Now? How Did We Get Here? Where Are We Going?" with a panel featuring Dr. Tarshia Stanley, assistant professor of English at Spelman; Moya Bailey, C2005, a comparative women's studies/pre-medical major; Kevin Powell, journalist and hip hop historian; Michael Lewellen, vice president of public relations, BET; Brian Leach, vice president of A&R, TVT Records; and hip hop artist and actress MC Lyte. Michaela Angela Davis, ESSENCE magazine, served as the moderator.

■ Dr. Andrew Williams, assistant professor of computer science, was funded for the proposal, "Multi-Agent Team Allocation for a Human-Automatic System." The $10,000 award covered September through December 2004. The research project, conducted for NASA Jet Propulsion Laboratory and the California Institute for Technology, investigated new artificial intelligence computer algorithms. ●

The Spelman SGA did more than try – they scored a major success. "Spelman students continued their tradition of registering students throughout the AUC," says Dr. Zenobia Hikes, vice president for Student Affairs at Spelman. And in 2004, "they registered over 2,000 people in their SGA Initiative, including people in the West End."

The SGA employed a strategic approach to voter education and registration. A key step, Adejobe says, was setting up on-campus registration. They also held student rallies and information sessions, and brought in local political leaders Lisa Borders, president of the Atlanta City Council, and Atlanta Mayor Shirley Franklin.

The SGA didn't rest on election day. "I went through campus with a bullhorn reminding students to vote," Adejobe says. "As a result, "our polling site was jam-packed at the CAU gym. President Beverly Daniel Tatum joined us and we marched at 7:00 a.m., got there at 7:20 and the line was already outside the door."

The Spelman SGA's preparation paid off. "We observed that the names of some newly registered voters did not appear on the registration lists that the poll workers were using," President Tatum wrote in a letter to the Spelman community. "In some cases, these voters were being told that they could not vote or that they had to call the Secretary of State's office to confirm their registration (impossible to do because the line was busy.) However, I was very pleased that our SGA leaders were well-educated about the process and voters' rights and they successfully advocated for their fellow students, helping them to obtain provisional ballots, which is the procedure that should be used."

Rocking the Vote

"The value of younger voters was recognized nationally," Dr. Hikes notes. And Spelman students contributed to that dynamic. According to Kate Brandon of Rock the Vote/Rap the Vote, "Our goal was to get 20 million 18 to 29-year-olds to vote. We got 21 million, the largest turnout since the voting age was changed in 1972."

With their heartfelt commitment, strategic leadership and unflagging effort, Spelman students contributed to that landmark achievement, and empowered themselves and their community in the process. ●

Academic Achievements & Awards

English instructor Sharan Strange received the Rona Jaffe Foundation Writers' Award on September 30, 2004.

Ms. Toni Inyama, executive correspondence coordinator in the Office of the President, recently completed requirements for a Master of Public Administration degree (MPA) from Troy University. Formal commencement exercises were held on December 16, 2004.

Associate Professor and Chair of Political Science Dr. Tinaz Pavri served as a discussant on the panel "Case Studies in International Relations" at the annual meeting of the Georgia Political Science Association (GPSA), in Savannah, Georgia, on November 12–14, 2004.

The Director of the Women's Center and the Anna J. Cooper Professor of Women's Studies Dr. Beverly Guy-Sheftall led a delegation from the Women's Research & Resource Center to South Africa to attend the Writing African Women – Poetics and Politics of African Gender Research conference at the University of the Western Cape in January. The delegation included Associate Professor Dr. M. Bahati Kuumba, Director of the Digital Moving Image Salon Professor Ayoka Chenzira, Program Coordinator Ms. Yvonne Miller Vinson, and Ms. Alysia Burdette, C2006, comparative women's studies (CWS) major. Ms. Burdette was invited to write a piece on the Writing African Women conference for Agenda – Empowering Women for Gender Equity, a feminist media publication project in Africa. The Women's Center co-sponsored a Black feminist/womanist workshop where feminist scholars from southern African nations met to plan future activities in South Africa, to include international faculty and student exchanges between Spelman College and the University of the Western Cape. Funded by a Ford grant, Globalizing African Diasporan Studies, the Women's Center is working to establish and strengthen institutionalized global linkages, with an emphasis on Africa and the African Diaspora. As a result, the Women's Center has established collaboration with Dr. Yvette Abrahams of the HERSTORY Project through the University of the Western Cape's Institute for Historical Research.

Appointments

Effective October 1, 2004, Dr. Myra Burnett was appointed vice provost. Dr. Barnett will continue to serve as the director of the Office of Institutional Research, Assessment and Planning while a search is being conducted for the next director. In her new role as vice provost, Dr. Barnett's responsibility will include: providing leadership in program review, faculty development and special projects; serving as the liaison for the Southern Association of Colleges & Schools (SACS); and having supervisory responsibility for the Cosby Museum of Fine Art, the Health Careers Program, the Dual Degree Engineering Program and the Office of Institutional Research, Assessment and Planning.

Professor of Art Lev Mills and Associate Professor of Art Dr. M. Akua McDaniel have been appointed by Atlanta Mayor Shirley Franklin to the Public Arts Advisory Committee for the purpose of assisting the City of Atlanta Bureau of Cultural Affairs in evaluating and developing policy associated with the acquisition, conservation and maintenance of public art projects in the city.

Associate Professor and Chair Dr. Tinaz Pavri was elected to the executive board of the Georgia Political Science Association (GPSA).

Associate Director of Continuing Education Jamila Canady has been elected to serve on the board of the Georgia Adult Education Association (GAEA) as a member at large for 2004–06.

Exhibitions, Performances & Published Works

Undaunted by the Fight: Spelman College and the Civil Rights Movement, 1957–1967, by Professor Emeritus of Sociology Dr. Harry G. Lefever, has been just published by The Mercer University Press. The book is a study of a small but dedicated group of Spelman College students and faculty who, between 1957 and 1967, risked their lives, compromised their grades and jeopardized their careers to make Atlanta and the South a more just and open society.

The mixed media drawings and paintings of Associate Professor & Chair of Art Barbara Nesin, MSA, will be featured at the Pearl Conard Gallery at The Ohio State University – Mansfield in February 2005. In fall 2004, her work was included in an exhibit, "The Relevance of Ritual," at the African American Museum of Nassau County in New York.

The Colorful Art Society has awarded its fifth annual scholarships to two students who entered their work in the sculpture class at Spelman College taught by Mr. Anthony Bingham, art lecturer. The awards were presented at the Colorful Arts Society annual gala event at the Woodruff Arts Center in Atlanta on November 7, 2004. The recipients are Jacqueline Robinson, senior art major at Clark Atlanta University, who received the first place $500.00 award for her sculpture, "Secret," and Jessica Scott-Felder, senior studio art major at Spelman College, who received the second place $250.00 award for her sculpture, "Lackadazical."

The research paper, "Politeness as a Social Strategy in Japanese Culture," by Associate Professor of Japanese Dr. Xuexin Liu was published in Southeast Review of Asian Studies (SERAS), Vol. 26, pp. 63–80 (1/2005). SERAS is a publication of Southeast Conference Association for Asian Studies. Dr. Liu presented the following research papers: (1) "The Hip Hop Impact on Japanese Youth Culture" at the Southeast Conference of the Association for Asian Studies (January 14–16, 2005), University of Kentucky, and (2) "Ganguro in Japanese Youth Culture: Self-Identity in Cultural Conflict" at the Southern Japan Seminar, Spring 2005 Conference (February 25–26, 2005), Florida International University.

Associate Professor and Chair of Political Science Dr. Tinaz Pavri has a chapter titled "The United Nations in the 1970s" in the forthcoming book, The 70s in America, published by Salem Press. Also, Dr. Pavri was interviewed on The Breakfast Club, Jamaica's morning news radio program, November 24, 2004, on the topic of the current India-Pakistan rapprochement.

Assistant Professor of Music Dr. Lawrence Schenbeck presented a paper, "Representing America, Instructing Europe: The Hampton Choir on Tour," at the national meeting of the Society for American Music (Cleveland) and for the South-Central chapter meeting of the American Musicological Society (Atlanta). Dr. Schenbeck served as the South-Central chapter president during 2003–2004.

Associate Professor of the Sociology and Anthropology Dr. Cynthia Spence recently contributed a chapter to the fall 2004 edition of the New Directions Series for Student Services Journal. The chapter, "A Women's College Perspective on the Education of Males," appeared in the issue titled, "Developing Effective Programs and Services for College Men." Also, Dr. Spence was a featured presenter at the New York University Faculty Resource Center Fall Symposium, Beyond Brown v. Education: Diversity in Higher Education.

Dr. Harry G. Lefever with Melba Moore Carter, C'49, who is shown on the book cover demonstrating in front of Rich's in the Spring of 1961.

Dr. Mulcahy's article in turn links to his popular recreational math page on card tricks on the Spelman Web site.

English instructor Sharan Strange gave poetry readings at the following venues: Spelman College on September 20, 2004, with Associate Professor & Chair of English Dr. Opal Moore and giovanni singleton; the Furious Flower Poetry Conference at James Madison University on September 23, 2004; New York University on October 1, 2004, and Georgia Tech on November 18, 2004.

Assistant Professor of Drama Crystal A. Dickinson performed in August Wilson's play Piano Lesson at Theatre-in-the Square in Marietta, Georgia, in March 2005.

Executive Director of Public Relations/Communications Tomika DePriest authored the essay, "Yielding Greater PR Impact Amid Information Overload," in the newly released book Lessons Learned in the PR Trenches, 2005 Edition, published by PR News Press. ●

Spelman Jaguars Make School History as Athletes Strive in 2004/2005

The Spelman intercollegiate athletics program is enjoying an exciting year with three of its six teams breaking school records while the program is vying for NCAA Division III full membership. For the first time in Spelman history the fall 2004 soccer team ended with a winning season, prevailing in five out of nine games. During the same season, two tennis players attained Atlantic South Regional rankings, another first for the college. Sara Redd, C2007, was ranked 45th in singles and, with her teammate Amber Rucker, C2007, 25th in doubles. In addition, this is the first time that Spelman basketball has had a winning season during participation as Provisional Members of Division III.

It's no surprise that sports at Spelman are thriving, considering the importance the administration is placing on the program. "Sports participation has been a part of the lives of many Spelman students prior to college and I feel that we owe it to our students to provide opportunities for them to balance their academic pursuits with a broad spectrum of co-curricular programs," says Dr. Sharon J. Washington, provost. "The athletic program at Spelman, along with programs in the arts, civic engagement and student organizations, contribute to an environment that nurtures the development of our students." Scholar-athlete Ms. Redd agrees, "It's always been fun for me to compete with a school team," says the political science major. She also says that participating in sports has helped her focus on her studies and has taught her good time-management skills.

Spelman belongs to the Great South Conference and is a provisional member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division III. "Any institution in any division is considered provisional until it complies with all of the rules and regulations required by the NCAA," explains Germaine McAuley, chair of physical education and athletics director. Ms. McAuley expects Spelman to attain full membership in Division III in May. Although Spelman scholar-athletes are permitted to play during the regular season, there are restrictions for provisional institutions, including no conference tournaments.

Along with solidifying Spelman's status, Ms. McAuley is working to increase awareness of and enthusiasm for the department and is dedicated to raising the level of competitiveness of the program. She is also assembling an Athletics Advisory Committee to oversee various scholar-athlete issues. Since joining the Spelman community in January 2004, Ms. McAuley has added three full-time faculty coaches — Philmore George, soccer, Dionne Poulton, cross country, and Parley Youman, tennis. Seven-year department veteran LaVon Mercer is the associate director and head basketball coach. Part-time employees coach golf and volleyball. Despite the fact that scholarships are not provided in Division III, "all of my coaches have done a superb job in getting the best out of their athletes," says Ms. McAuley. "The girls have really worked hard in all sports to do a good job."

According to the archives, Spelman women have been participating in athletics since the late 1880s. In the 1920s, intramural and open recreational programs were organized, including archery, baseball, basketball, hiking, soccer, volleyball, tennis and track. The Spelman Athletics Council was established by students in 1938 and later became the Spelman Athletics Association. Comprising student representatives from each class, the association organized teams or clubs in basketball, volleyball, tennis, archery, and track and field. Students who participated in athletics earned points, which were used to award numerals or letters to the most active players.

Sports teams were organized to compete against other Atlanta University Center colleges, Georgia Tech and Agnes Scott in 1957. In the 1980s, Spelman was a member of the Atlanta Phoenix Conference, which included teams from Clark College, Morris Brown College, Georgia Tech, Oglethorpe University, Mercer College and Atlanta Christian College. The College was also a provisional member of the NCAA Division II and competed independently, as well.

Despite the lack of financial scholarships, basketball point guard Aaronette McFarlin, C2005, says she plays for the love of the game. "I like the dedication [of the scholar-athletes]," says Ms. McFarlin, who finds the attitude and momentum of the team exciting. "No one is on scholarship so it takes a lot of dedication and determination . . . and it starts from the coach all the way down."

With approximately 100 scholar-athletes participating in soccer, basketball, volleyball, tennis, cross country and golf, all of the teams are experiencing growth and respectable success. Ms. McAuley would like to capitalize on that success by improving the facilities to increase competitiveness. Currently only two of the six teams, volleyball and basketball, utilize the gymnasium in Read Hall, which is to be dedicated in April as the Margurite F. Simon Gymnasium in honor of retired physical education faculty member, Miss Marguerite Simon, C'35. The tennis team also plays on campus while the other three sports compete at other facilities. Although Ms. McFarlin is pleased with the program, she would like to see more people coming out to the games. "We've seen a great increase in the support from the community and administration," she says passionately, "but I would like to see it grow some more." Considering the enthusiasm and commitment from the administration to the scholar-athletes, sports at Spelman is sure to garner a lot more attention. ●

Independent Auditors' Report

The Board of Trustees
Spelman College:

We have audited the accompanying statements of financial position of Spelman College (the College) as of June 30, 2004 and 2003, and the related statements of activities and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the College's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the College as of June 30, 2004 and 2003, and changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

2003–2004 Donor Honor Roll

JULY 1, 2003 – JUNE 30, 2004

Greetings:

Spelman College proudly marks an outstanding year in philanthropic support through the 2003–2004 Honor Roll of Contributors. In the enclosed, we acknowledge those who contributed to the College during the fiscal year July 1, 2003 through June 30, 2004. In this publication, we celebrate $6,793,300 in total giving to Spelman, including a record-breaking $1.1 million from alumnae, and a 21.1 percent participation rate. The Honor Roll recognizes each contributor to the College, supporting our belief that every gift makes Spelman stronger.

At its core, the Honor Roll of Contributors gives us the opportunity to review the diverse and generous mix of gifts Spelman received in the previous giving year. There were gifts to the endowment, the Annual Fund, Sisters Chapel, scholarships, the Museum and a broad range of academic and extracurricular programs that define the Spelman experience. The conclusion seems clear: Your assessment of the College remains positive, and your faith in Spelman remains vigorous.

Thank you for your generosity in 2003–2004. For the commitment and devotion it conveys, you have Spelman's deepest gratitude.

JUDGE HARRIET MITCHELL MURPHY, C'49 — a long-standing commitment to giving and serving:

“It all began with the traditional chats that President Florence Matilda Read held each year with graduating seniors. During our chat, she told us that much was expected of us as we went out into the world. Most importantly, we were expected to give back to the community and our College. Supporting Spelman financially would help make educational opportunities available for future students.

Remembering her words, I began my support immediately after graduation by joining the Atlanta Spelman Club. I knew that my financial support would help to strengthen the College. Through the years, I have continued my commitment to Spelman by supporting the Annual Fund, special College projects, and two scholarships established by my class. I have also served my community and my country in various positions of leadership and have received recognition and numerous awards.

So many of my classmates have shared this same history, and we are proud that we can now witness our College emerge as one of the nation’s premier centers of education. To ensure Spelman’s continued progress, those who have been faithful in their giving must give more, and some commitment to “give back” must be made by those who have not yet given. I challenge all alumnae, especially the lawyers and judges, to step up to the bench and do justice with contributions to our alma mater.”

FOUNDERS CLUB

In tribute to the Founders, Sophia B. Packard and Harriet E. Giles, the Founders Club recognizes annual gifts in the range of $500–$999.

ALUMNAE GIVING BY CLASS

As Spelman alumnae, the impact of our individual gifts is magnified when united with those of our classmates and sisters. Collectively, alumnae exceeded the $1 million giving and 20% donor participation goals for 2003 - 2004. At the close of the fiscal year, alumnae had generated contributions totaling $1,017,073, setting an all-time high. This total was a result of gifts received from 2,649 alumnae donors, equivalent to participation from 21.1 percent of the total alumnae body. We are grateful to those who made these achievements possible.

TERRY AND MARCELLA JONES, co-chairs of the Spelman College Parents Association and the parents of MALAIKA JONES, C2001, and NIA JONES, C2004, take a stand for the Annual Fund:

“As parents of two recent graduates and co-chairs of the Spelman College Parents Association, supporting the College is very important to us. Like many Spelman parents, my husband Terry and I have experienced paying tuition and other cost associated with Spelman. Nevertheless, we consistently support the Annual Fund. Knowing that tuition covers only half of the total cost involved in educating a Spelman student, we view ourselves as a financial partner for students, helping to make a quality educational experience more affordable.”

SYLVIA T. BOZEMAN, PH.D., professor of the mathematics department and supporter of the Campus Annual Fund Campaign:

"In earlier years, I began to contribute to the campus campaign as a way of saying that I believe in the value of Spelman College enough to give even more than I do as an employee. Often I have seen students and their families make enormous sacrifices to obtain an education here. Years later, I have seen the accomplishments of these and other Spelman alumnae and how much they give to their communities across this country. This successive line of students turned graduates keeps me ever reminded of what a very special place this is. I believe in Spelman College, its value to African American people, and to the nation; and I want others outside of the College to believe in her too. That is why I began giving to the Annual Fund then, and why I continued for several years. Today, giving is a habit."

TOMECIA RILEY, junior dual - degree engineering major, offers the Starr Foundation a huge "thank you":

"There is no better place for the education and development of women of color than Spelman College. I owe the Starr Foundation a huge "thank you." As a three-year recipient of the Starr Foundation scholarship, I am able to spend less time worrying about paying tuition and focus on an amazing educational experience."

CARMEN FIELDS, junior psychology major, is grateful to the National Distillers Distributors Corporation for their scholarship support.

“Spelman is helping to shape my life. I enjoy a supportive and nurturing environment that helps me thrive. Thanks to the National Distillers Corporation Scholarship, I have the financial assistance that I need to help supplement my educational costs. Corporate scholarships are a tremendous help to students like me who face financial challenges in paying for a top-notch education.”
