Dear Spelman Community and Friends,

When the founders of Spelman College, Sophia Packard and Harriet Giles, gathered their first 11 students on April 11, 1881, in the basement of Friendship Baptist Church, they had already overcome what some would characterize as insurmountable obstacles. But the education, and even more important the elevation, of Black women was their calling.

So successful was their endeavor that nearly 134 years later, Spelman women can be found effecting change in every industry from healthcare, technology and the arts to those fueled by service and social justice. The enthusiasm Packard and Giles created around educating Black women garnered critical financial support for their mission. We are appreciative that the founders' vision continues to inspire you and thousands of recent contributors — including many alumnae — to invest in Spelman women.

In the fall of 2009, the College publicly launched a major comprehensive fundraising campaign — with a goal of raising $150 million dollars, the largest campaign effort in our history. Thanks to your generous support we not only met our goal, but we exceeded it — successfully raising $157.8 million.

Your valuable support has helped us to increase faculty and renew our campus with the renovation of Laura Spelman Rockefeller Hall and the construction of a new and improved Read Hall — home of our Wellness Revolution. Your gifts have allowed us to expand our technology and extend our global reach through student and faculty travel and international student recruitment as part of the new Gordon-Zeto Center for Global Education.

Of critical importance, we have generated $53 million in new scholarships, more than doubling the support we are able to offer every year. Your contributions have helped the College to strengthen our signature first year seminar (African Diaspora and the World), expand our computer science faculty, establish an endowment for the Women's Research and Resource Center, create a signature social justice program, and launch new initiatives for the Spelman College Museum of Fine Art. These and other investments have strengthened the core of Spelman, just as we hoped it would.

It is enormously gratifying to see the College moving ahead with such strength of purpose. The momentum of our campaign will be the wind at our back as we continue in our Spelman tradition of excellence.

On behalf of the Spelman College Board of Trustees, let me extend a heartfelt thank you to all of our donors who contributed to this historic campaign. Our generous supporters, our dedicated faculty and staff, and our hardworking volunteers all came together for one specific and shared purpose: to support our talented and deserving students in their pursuit of an outstanding liberal arts education.

Your investment has a transformative effect on the entire Spelman community and our mission of preparing women to make a positive impact in the world.

Sincerely,

Beverly Daniel Tatum, Ph.D.

GLOBAL ENGAGEMENT

To internationalize our undergraduate education, Spelman has integrated globalized learning throughout every facet of the student experience. Our goal is that each student has at least one meaningful international travel experience. Gifts also help faculty and staff internationalize curriculum and initiatives and participate in conferences worldwide. Enhancing students' intercultural competency is a priority, as seen by the community welcoming students and guests from other nations, the development of an Asian Studies minor, and the College's participation in global opportunities in science, technology, engineering and math.

STUDY ABROAD

This year 100 students journeyed to South America, Europe, or Africa as participants in a new study abroad program launched by Spelman and the Council on International Educational Exchange (CIEE). The intercultural engagement program, the first of its kind between the two organizations, offers students a concentrated, intensive learning experience steeped in the social, economic, political and cultural values of the host countries. In her visit to locations in Lisbon, Peru, like the National Tile Museum, Khyana Hart, C'2015, "took classes in the history of the country, Portuguese, art and tile making, and reveled in the beauty of Lisbon's castles, beaches, museums and college campuses."

Global Engagement

INTERNATIONAL CONNECTIONS

During her CIEE study abroad experience, economics major Marli Crowe, C'2016, made a strong connection with a group of students at El Carmen elementary school in the Afro-Peruvian community Chincha Alta, Peru. She continues to correspond with their teacher and plans to send them books and school supplies.

RESEARCH ABROAD

Ebony Monk, C'2016, spent the summer of 2014 in India conducting research as a G-STEM scholar under the mentorship of Natarajan Ravi, Ph.D., chair of Spelman's physics department, and Sundara Ramaprabhu, Ph.D., head of the Indian Institute of Technology Madras' Alternative Energy and Nanotechnology Laboratory. She also visited iconic locations like the Taj Mahal.

RICHARD LU

"In a global era, all cultures are interconnected. Because of the unique relationship between countries like China and the United States, students need to know other languages and cultures to communicate with others. Each country has something that complements the other."

— Richard Lu, Ph.D., assistant professor of Chinese in the Department of World Languages and Literature

GLOBAL ENGAGEMENT

A choice to change the world begins with a choice to really know the world – to experience its vastness, beauty and complexity, to appreciate its many cultures and understand its many challenges. This choice is not simply about a Spelman woman seeing new places. It is, more importantly, about a Spelman woman seeing herself – wherever she goes – as a leader in the world.

Ensuring that Spelman students have the confidence and competence to be global leaders is the impetus behind the College's strategic priority to internationalize every undergraduate's education. This includes sending Spelman students out into the world through travel and study abroad, and international service learning opportunities. The College is also bringing the world to campus through curricular and co-curricular program enhancements and increased recruitment of international students and visiting scholars.

Spelman's redoubled commitment to global education has resulted in some impressive achievements. Since 2011, 920 students have traveled to 48 countries to study and conduct research in their academic disciplines, soak up the culture and meet new people. In 2013, 38 international students walked through the Spelman gates, the highest number to be enrolled in the College's history.

Among the gifts that helped expand students' international experiences were contributions that funded travel to France, Turkey, China, South Africa, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador and Trinidad. The College also received funds to increase global recruitment and provide more scholarships for international students, including 10 from Zimbabwe. The hub for Spelman's comprehensive and integrated internationalization initiatives is the Gordon-Zeto Center for Global Education, which was established in 2008 through an anonymous endowment gift of $17 million.

The return on these investments? Priceless. Ashley Grisham, C'2012, who studied and interned in Shanghai, put it this way: "My world perspective has evolved....I know there is a place abroad for African-American women."

EUNICE MUSHAWATU, C'2017

"I want to do software engineering. When I return to Zimbabwe, I intend to develop my country technologically, and make sure everyone is computer literate, especially those who go to girls' schools."

– Eunice Mushawatu, C' 2017, Ambassador Andrew Young International Scholar

Change is transforming.

CAREER PREPARATION

Alumnae like Lauren Guerrido, C'2013, are able to pursue their career goals because of the generous support they received as Spelman students.

A beneficiary of the Bonner Scholarship, Guerrido is completing her dual-degree, physics and nuclear engineering major at the University of Michigan. While at Spelman she was a student researcher in the physics department with the National Science Foundation Partnership for Research and Education in Materials.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR RESEARCH AND INTERNSHIPS

Expanded opportunities for undergraduate research and career-related internships enhance the education students obtain through Spelman's creative and rigorous teaching. From interning at Google to presenting during Research Day about their studies of chemotherapy treatment given to black women with breast cancer, Spelman students are getting the hands-on and professional experiences that will allow them to navigate the workplace confidently and excel in graduate and doctoral programs.

Opportunities

COMPETITIVE EXPERIENCE

The purchase of a 3-D imaging confocal microscope with a grant from the U.S. Department of Education improved the quality of Spelman's research and teaching, according to Mark Lee, Ph.D., associate professor and chair of the department of biology. "Students will gain experience with world-class instrumentation, making them more competitive for graduate and professional programs. This level of instrumentation helps Spelman's biology department maintain its place among top undergraduate biology programs."

STEERING STEM

Members of the award-winning Spelman College SpelBots robotics team compete together and pursue individual research projects like investigating ways robotics can help combat childhood obesity. Through visits to middle and high schools, they are also ambassadors for raising the visibility of STEM-related careers for African-Americans.

CARMEN K. SIDBURY

"Research experiences in the first two years increase retention of students in STEM majors and improve students' attitudes toward STEM fields. Spelman is providing students with essential research experiences to ensure key competencies – critical thinking, effective communication and quantitative reasoning."

OPPORTUNITIES FOR RESEARCH AND INTERNSHIPS

Knowledge is good. Wisdom – the ability to put knowledge to good use – is better. That is why one of Spelman's strategic priorities is to provide more and better opportunities for students to engage in undergraduate research and participate in career-related internships. The goal is to give students hands-on, real-world experience in exactly what it takes to make a difference and ensure that they graduate fully prepared to excel in their chosen fields.

On the research front, the College's strategy has had a significant impact, particularly in the science, mathematics, engineering and technology (STEM) disciplines, where women historically have been underrepresented. Through its Enhancing Global Research and Education in STEM (G-STEM) program, Spelman is steadily making progress in changing that reality for African-American women.

" Oftentimes women and women of color have steered away from doing research," said Dr. Rosalind Gregory-Bass, C'92, assistant professor of biology. "But it is great when I'm able to break it down for them step by step and watch them gain that same love for asking questions and coming up with answers."

Under the apprenticeship of innovative faculty, Spelman students are developing their innate talents, social conscience and global awareness to tackle seemingly intractable problems in fields as diverse as biomedical research, tropical studies and education policy. From the honors program to those majoring in the arts, thesis and capstone experiences allow students to demonstrate their ability to think critically, draw from multiple sources and communicate ideas clearly and effectively – all hallmarks of an excellent liberal arts education. These efforts have been supported by generous grants from research-focused philanthropic entities, including the National Science Foundation, The Henry Luce Foundation and the Howard Hughes Medical Institute.

Spelman also has made strides in providing expanded internship opportunities for students at major national and international organizations. Nearly 50 companies participate in the Spring Career Fair every year. And through the College's new Cooperative Education program, which integrates classroom learning and work experiences, students are experiencing the connection between their academic and career goals and landing positions with Fortune 500 firms.

COCA-COLA

Coca-Cola has supported Spelman and the women we educate through numerous initiatives. The Coca-Cola Foundation ensures Spelman students have exposure to a broad spectrum of leadership models by funding the Coca-Cola Intergenerational Leadership Mentoring Program. The Foundation also contributes scholarships to students with high academic achievement and financial need that would prohibit them from completing their degree. Students can also benefit from paid internships and opportunities to earn scholarship support through the Coca-Cola Refreshments-sponsored Vicki R. Palmer Scholarship Program, named for the corporation's former executive vice president and 16-year member of Spelman's board of trustees.

ALUMNAE-STUDENT CONNECTIONS

Strengthening the sisterly bonds between the College's current students and 18,000 alumnae empowers the entire Spelman community. Alumnae mentors, who serve as compelling role models, also provide professional resources and a worldwide network. These relationships are fostered through consistent innovative programming and have resulted in our students being better equipped for pursuing opportunities and always having someone with a shared foundation to guide them along their path to success.

THE SPELMAN SISTERHOOD

During New Student Orientation, first-year students participate in the traditional induction ceremony, where they are welcomed into the Spelman sisterhood by the National Alumnae Association of Spelman College. The bond is solidified during the event with new students also participating in the White Dress Tradition for the first time and receiving a Spelman pin from their alumnae sisters to mark the occasion.

ALUMNAE CONNECTIONS

The four years a student spends matriculating at the College are only the beginning of her Spelman experience. She continues to feel the presence and impact of her alma mater throughout her life – especially through the strong sisterhood of Spelman women whose bonds transcend geography, industry and class year.

So powerful are these bonds, so integral is this sisterhood to the success of the institution and its current students, that one of Spelman's strategic priorities is to strengthen alumnae involvement even more. The College asked its graduates to share a greater portion of their time, talent and treasure with the College. The alumnae responded in some remarkable ways.

Through its Student Connection, Mentoring and Support program, the Office of Alumnae Affairs matched students with graduates in the fields of law, medicine, financial services, hospitality, education and communications/marketing/media/public relations. So far, 120 pairs of Spelman students and alumnae are engaged in one-on-one and group mentoring, shadowing, internships, panels, networking socials and co-curricular experiences.

Alumnae also connected with students through programs such as Alumnae Success Stories, a panel featuring alumnae luminaries in the art industry, as well as excursions to meet with members of Congress on Capitol Hill and to see alumna Pearl Cleage's play, "What I Learned in Paris," and the Broadway musical "Fela!"

When it comes to financial support of the College, alumnae truly distinguished themselves through the Every Woman... Every Year! initiative. At 41 percent, Spelman's alumnae participation rate – now nearly triple what it was when Dr. Tatum became president of Spelman in 2002 – is among the top 10 of women's colleges in the nation. Alumnae have contributed more than $20 million, a level of generosity fitting for those who continue to cherish their Spelman experience.

As Dr. Laurena Moore Powell, C'82, explained: "After all, Spelman is our school and we should help take care of her."

ANNA PONDER, C'86

"I was very fortunate to have someone as knowledgeable, caring and passionate about study abroad as Dr. Ganz. Understanding that you live as part of a global community is incredibly important. There is no substitute for travel."

— Anna Ponder, C'86, who financially supported the endowing of the Margery Ganz Study Abroad Scholarship

Change is understanding.

LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

Spelman students are encouraged to be critically thinking global change agents. Focused on individual potential and best practices, leadership development is fostered through Spelman's Center for Leadership and Civic Engagement. As evidenced by the number of fellowships, awards and recognitions garnered by our students, these young women also succeed at driving their own academic achievement and excel in leadership roles in initiatives and organizations, many of which they create. To prepare for their leadership journey, Spelman encourages women to invest in themselves through the College's Wellness Revolution, a signature initiative that prioritizes fitness as a lifestyle.

Leadership

WELLNESS REVOLUTION

Spelman is forging a new wellness path, one that will lead the way to better health for this generation of students and for those whose lives they will touch. From aqua aerobics and Zumba to power walking and yoga, the renovated Read Hall wellness facility will allow students to continue engaging in on-campus fitness activities, while developing habits that will support healthy living for a lifetime.

LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

Spelman produces leaders: women who are at the forefront of the arts, child advocacy, finance, law, medicine, public service, science and many other fields. In 133 years, leadership as the defining quality of a Spelman education has not changed. What has changed is the world in which Spelman women lead, a world increasingly characterized by rapid change and globalization.

To ensure that Spelman graduates are prepared to lead in the most challenging circumstances, the College set a strategic priority to foster the individual leadership potential of every student. The focus is to integrate leadership into curricular and co-curricular programs to help students learn to make wise, authentic and ethical choices as they choose to change the world.

"We want to produce women who are equipped with the intellectual engagement and personal experiences required of 21st-century change agents," said Cynthia Neal Spence, Ph.D., C'78, associate professor of sociology and faculty lead for the Social Justice Fellows Program.

Through encouragement inside and outside the classroom, Spelman students have demonstrated leadership by creating award-winning iPhone apps; documenting human rights and social justice movements on film; organizing support for victims of the earthquake in Haiti; participating in the Clinton Global Initiative; and founding a Spelman chapter of GlobeMed, a grassroots organization dedicated to ending healthcare disparities in underserved communities around the world.

Spelman students are also leading and participating in a movement right on campus – the Wellness Revolution. This initiative seeks to address the health issues that affect many African-American women by encouraging fitness as a way of life. Through innovative programs, including those to be offered in the renovated Read Hall – an $18 million project funded entirely through philanthropy – Spelman women are taking the lead in their own health so they can be well to take on their leadership roles in the world.

ARCUS FOUNDATION

Spelman is able to support initiatives like convening the first lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender conference on an HBCU campus through generous contributions from the Arcus Foundation to increase awareness and understanding of the African-American gay and lesbian experience through research and programming. Danyelle Carter, C'2016, is an LGBT Ambassador in Afrekete, a student LGBT support organization in the Atlanta University Center.

Change is

SERVICE LEARNING

The practice of serving their peers and communities positions Spelman students to live authentically and ethically in the tradition of our sisterhood. Whether tutoring students at local elementary schools, assisting those affected by natural disasters, or recording oral histories with the senior population, students engaged in service learning that pairs hands-on community engagement with coursework is a manifestation of the College's mission.

SPELMAN GLOBAL BRIGADES

In the spring of 2014, 24 members of the Spelman Global Medical-Dental Brigades took their first trip to Panama, where they administered medical treatment and health education to an underserved population. Global Brigades is the world's largest student-led global health and sustainable development organization. Spelman's chapter, now 34 members, and the first from a same-gender minority institution, was co-founded in 2012 by Bill and Melinda Gates Millennium and Coca-Cola Foundation scholar Shanice Robinson, C'2015 (pictured), and Jasmeka Colvin, C'2014, a recipient of the Coca-Cola First Generation and Dignity Health scholarships.

SERVICE AND COMMUNITY-BASED LEARNING

At Spelman, service is a time-honored tradition. Throughout the College's history, Spelman women have responded to needs in the community with caring and committed support. During the 2013 academic year, almost 1,000 Spelman students – nearly half the student population – participated in almost 23,000 hours of community service.

But for an educational institution whose mission is to develop leaders, the purpose of service at Spelman is not just to encourage students to show empathy and give aid to people and causes. The purpose is also to engage students intellectually to understand the root causes of social issues and how they, as leaders, can best address them.

This perspective inspired the College's adoption of a strategic priority to strengthen service and community-based learning as a fundamental building block of the Spelman MILE, or My Integrated Learning Experience – the College's individualized liberal education curriculum. Efforts to directly connect what students learn in the classroom to practical application in the community are making education at Spelman more meaningful – and more real.

As part of their academic course requirements, students who studied the social and political issues surrounding refugee women also volunteered at an agency that provides services to resettled refugees. And students who studied the theory of patriarchy and violence against women also worked at an agency that assists battered women.

Spelman's service learning approach is evident outside the classroom, as well. Students who volunteered as tutors and mentors in local schools participated in a lecture series with an education studies professor. And Social Justice Fellows were matched with an economics professor for research and an alumna who heads a social justice agency for mentoring.

By placing service in an academic framework, the College is expanding what President Tatum calls a ripple of impact: "A Spelman education goes beyond the student to everyone that she touches."

REBECCA GORDON, C'2015

"Being an education major and getting chosen to be a UPS Scholar couldn't have been a better opportunity for me to challenge myself along with my students. It truly strengthened my desire to pursue teaching!"

Greetings,

On behalf of the Spelman College Board of Trustees, let me extend our gratitude to all of our donors who contributed to the tremendous success of The Campaign for Spelman College.

Generous support from contributors, our faculty and staff, and volunteers have made it possible for the next generation of talented Spelman women to receive an excellent liberal arts education.

I am thrilled to congratulate President Tatum and the entire Spelman community for their work to conceive and steward this incredible effort.

To our alumnae community, your involvement with the College has soared to new heights. As a graduate myself, I am particularly proud of the dramatically increased investment of time, talent and treasure made by my Spelman sisters during this focused campaign effort.

Over the life of the Campaign, 71% of alumnae – 12,348 of our graduates, took the Every Woman...Every Year! call to action to heart and gave a gift to the campaign, resulting in $20,007,035. This year alone we had the highest number of alumnae donors in the history of the College – 7,052, or 41%, financially support our beloved alma mater, for a total of $2,169,533.

We appreciate the 18,000 supporters who gave a historic $157.8 million throughout the Campaign. Those gifts included $53 million to create 171 new scholarships to help Spelman women complete their education and $46.2 million in endowment support to keep the College strong for years to come.

This is truly a historic moment for Spelman, and indeed an incredibly critical time for higher education as a whole. Despite the various and serious challenges facing today's students and the institutions that support them, Spelman has been able to stay the course and exceed an ambitious fundraising goal for the institution.

Let's celebrate this precious moment in the history of Spelman. Our legacy of leadership would not be possible without the investment of our entire community into these gifted women who are shaping our future. Thank you.

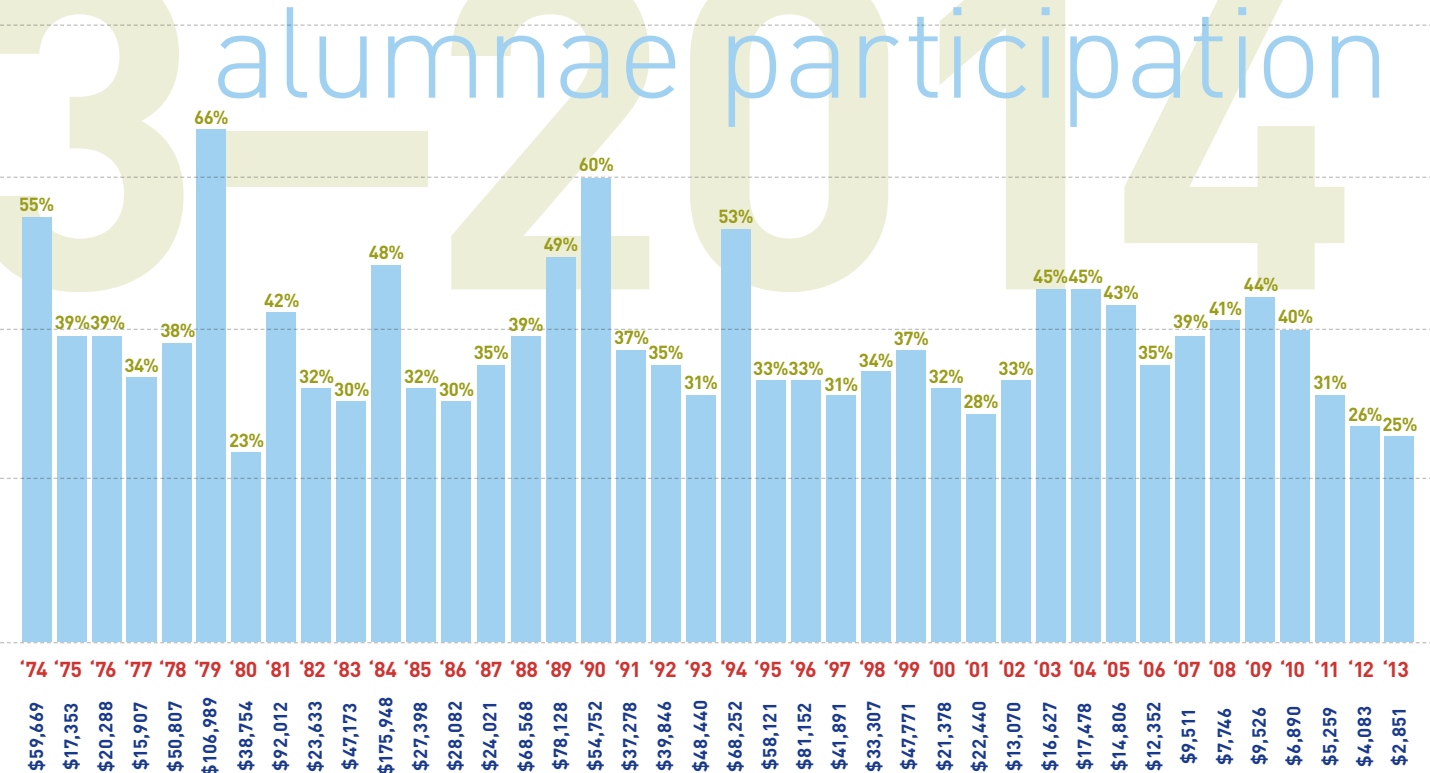

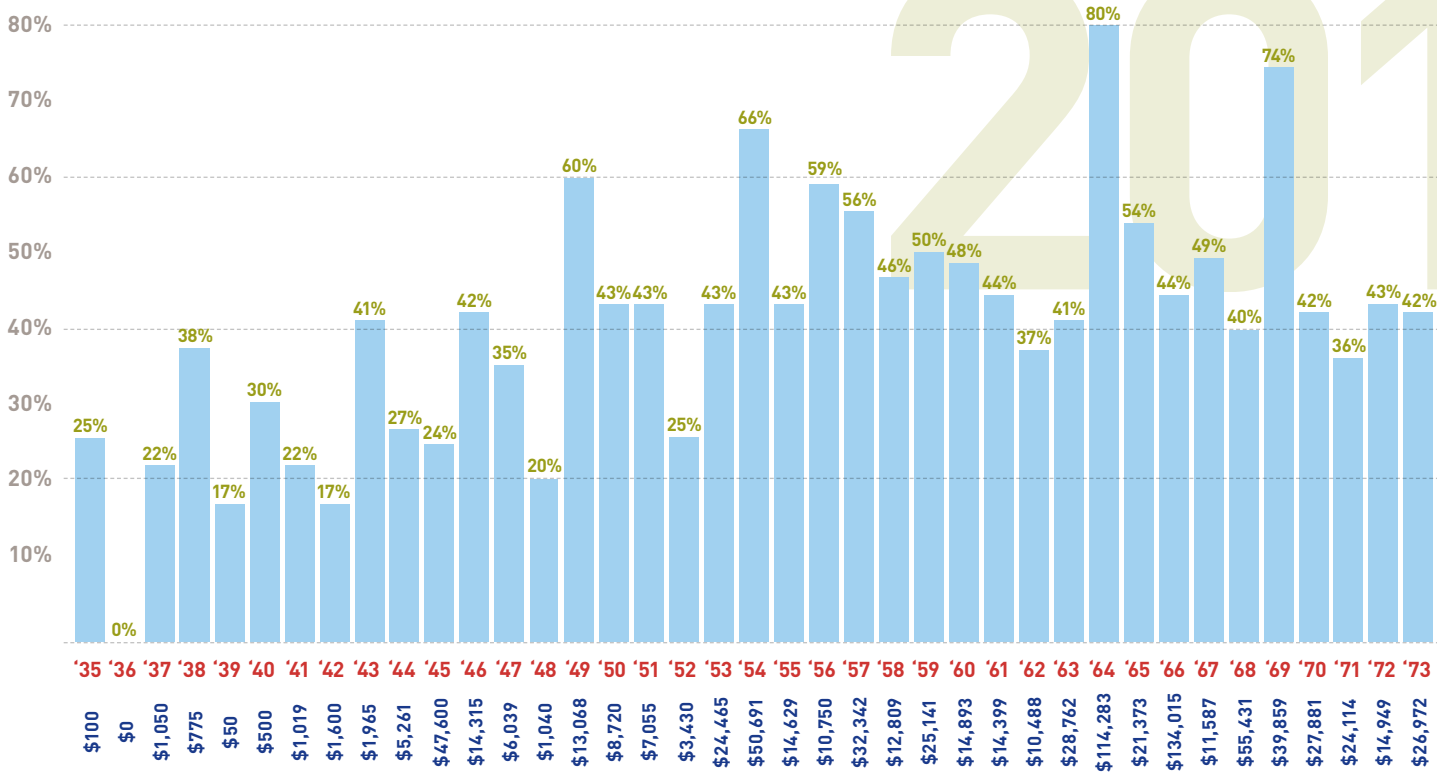

Sincerely,

Rosalind Gates Brewer, C'84

Change. Means. Success.

The Campaign for Spelman College was an ambitious undertaking, the success of which will benefit young women for years to come. Surpassing the $150 million goal to raise $157.8 million allows the College to expand the impact of your giving. During the Campaign, supporters contributed $53,160,481 for scholarships, $45,050,312 for faculty and academic programs, $28,673,127 for the annual fund, inclusive of in-kind gifts, and $30,982,410 for campus environment.

The real victory is not in the fact that $157.8 million was raised, but that through their philanthropic giving, a record number of alumnae and friends helped make a substantial impact in the lives of countless young women. Providing this valuable access to educational and cultural experiences on campus and around the world will help Spelman students become leaders who will affect global change in whatever path they elect to pursue.

The Campaign has afforded students access to more scholarships and broadened their global perspective. Living and studying in sustainable facilities and an improved campus infrastructure, they benefit from significant opportunities to cultivate leadership skills and the College's focus on developing life long health and wellness practices.

"This is a pivotal moment in Spelman's history. Yes, we exceeded our financial goals, but the dollars don't tell the entire story," said Kassandra Jolley, vice president for Institutional Advancement.

"The rest is seen in the lives of students who are able to obtain their Spelman degrees because they received a scholarship. Or one whose future opens to a world of possibilities after she presents her first academic paper or travels abroad. Each gift received in this campaign has had a visible and tangible impact on this campus and the women it serves."

True Blue Society
Names in blue have given for five or more consecutive years.

the 1881 society

The Spelman College 1881 Society recognizes alumnae and other individuals who contribute to the College. It is composed of four categories: Lifetime Societies, Annual Societies, the Guardian Society and the True Blue Society.

Lifetime Societies recognize cumulative giving in the amount of $100,000 or more.

Benefactors Society
$1 million and above

Heritage Society
$500,000–$999,999

Harreld-Granderson Society
$100,000–$499,999

Annual Societies recognize giving in the amount of $100 or more within the fiscal year (July 1–June 30).

Trustee Leadership Circle
$50,000 and above

Nellie Brewer Render Society
$10,000–$49,999

President’s Society
$1,000–$9,999

The Guardian Society recognizes donors who have included Spelman College in their wills and made provisions for other planned gifts.

The True Blue Society recognizes individuals who have given for five or more consecutive years.

DEL JUPITER, C'44

“My main reason for giving is to ensure the survival of HBCUs. Black colleges were started to teach us when nobody else wanted us to learn. I give to make sure Spelman survives.”

ways to give

Whether you choose to give to the Annual Fund, make a leadership gift of $25,000 or more, provide a gift or grant through your business or foundation, or plan to make a future gift, Spelman College appreciates your commitment to the education of our extraordinary students.

Outright gifts yield immediate tax benefits and have an instant impact on Spelman.

Various annuities provide you with income now and preserve the principal for later use for Spelman.

Bequest intentions are a living testament to your desire to invest in generations of young women who sustain our tradition of achievement. By means of your will or other estate plan, you can name Spelman as the beneficiary of a portion of your estate, or of particular assets in your estate.

Cash gifts and pledges: The easiest and most popular form of giving, these contributions can be made online; by electronic funds transfer (EFT); recurring credit card deductions (RCC); phone; or mail. For as little as $10 a month, the RCC option allows you to set up regular, automatic payments charged to the card that you select, and your EFT gifts to Spelman will be automatically deducted from your checking or savings account.

Gifts of appreciated securities: Sometimes more valuable than outright gifts, these contributions give you an immediate tax deduction and do not incur capital gains. The sale of these transferred securities enables Spelman to support critical initiatives.

Gifts of real property: When you deed your home/vacation home, undeveloped property, or commercial building to Spelman, you receive an immediate tax deduction and do not incur capital gains. Spelman may either use your property for the College or sell it and apply the proceeds to achieve its strategic goals.

Matching gifts: Matching gifts can be used to double your gift to Spelman College. If you are employed with a matching gift company, please contact your company's human resources department for instructions.

To learn more about gift opportunities, please contact the Office of Development at (866) 512-1690 or visit www.spelman.edu.

ALBERT N. THOMSON JR.

“As a child I observed that many of my relatives were active in their alumni organizations, and consistently supported their institutions financially. Why? I asked. They said they gave in appreciation and to give others the same help they received when they were students. I support in the same spirit.”

MAKEBA DIXON-HILL, C'2003

“Spelman is not merely a brick-and-mortar institution. She is alive and in the hearts of those dynamically impacted by an entity invested in the holistic education of Black women.”

— Makeba Dixon-Hill, C'2003, Curator of Education, Spelman College Museum of Fine Art

BRAD SHEARES

Former Spelman Trustee Bradley T. Sheares and his wife Adrienne Simmons established the Sheares Family Endowment in Chemistry to support student research through presentation travel grants and awards for research initiation and thesis development. The endowment helps students attract and succeed in graduate programs in chemistry and molecular sciences.

KARSH-KIPP AWARD

Bruce and Martha Karsh established the Karsh-KIPP Award at Spelman primarily to increase the number of first-generation college graduates. The scholarships are awarded to alumnae – like Paris Clark, C’2015 – of KIPP college preparatory public schools, which prepare students in underserved communities for college and life.
